CONCEPT NOTE

The twenty-first century is characterized by unprecedented social, cultural, technological, educational, and economic transformations. Globalization, digitalization, artificial intelligence, migration, climate concerns, social inequalities, changing identities, and evolving cultural narratives have significantly influenced contemporary human experiences. These developments have challenged traditional assumptions while creating new opportunities for interdisciplinary inquiry and knowledge creation. The International Conference on Humanities and Social Sciences (ICHSS-2026) aims to provide a global platform for academicians, researchers, educators, policy-makers, professionals, and students to engage in meaningful discussions on contemporary issues affecting humanity and society. The conference seeks to promote interdisciplinary dialogue and foster innovative perspectives on the role of humanities and social sciences in addressing emerging global challenges. The conference welcomes theoretical, empirical, conceptual, and interdisciplinary research contributions that explore contemporary developments in language, literature, education, psychology, home science, media, culture, sociology, gender studies, public policy, technology, and related fields. The event will facilitate scholarly exchange, academic networking, collaborative research, and publication opportunities for participants across the world.

OBJECTIVES

- Promote interdisciplinary research in humanities and social sciences
- Encourage academic dialogue on contemporary global challenges
- Foster collaboration among scholars, researchers and institutions
